The daughter tells a story of terrible suffering and privation. She says that the husband and father of the family was eaten by wolves while in an intoxicated condition last March. Since that time they have had no food in their humble cabin. The three younger children died of starvation and were cooked and eaten, one by one, by the mother and eldest daughter. The mother's mind finally gave way and she is now a raving maniac.

HE WAS INSANE.

His Relatives Will Bring Him to America.
(By Cable.)

LONDON, July 16.—A dispatch from Carnarvon, Wales, says that counsel for R. C. Duncan, of Washington, D. C., who was acquitted of the charge of attempting to kill his wife in the mountains at Bettws-Y-Coed, on the ground that he was insane, will shortly apply for the discharge of the prisoner, as it is the intention of his relatives to return with him to America if they succeed in securing his release. Application has not yet been made, because arrangements will probably be made in advance of the application for the reception of the insane man at the Government Hospital for the Insane at Washington. Dr. Kempster, the American expert on insanity, who gave testimony to show Duncan's condition, has sent a telegram to Dr. Goodwin, of the Washington Hospital, to see what arrangements he can make, if any, and should the reply be favorable the application for Duncan's release will at once be made.

THREE CHILDREN

MURDERED.

Their Grandmother Accused of the Deed.

WAS SHE DEMENTED?

Her Story About Being Tied to a Post, While They Were Murdered is not Believed.

(By the United Press.)

JOSHUA, Texas, July 16.—This town is still greatly excited over the tragedy of Monday night when three children of G. A. Newberry were murdered, and old Mrs. Newberry, grandmother of the children, was frightfully cut, being, as she alleges, tied to a post while the frightful work was in progress. The truth of the old woman's story was doubted almost from the first, and it was whispered around that she had committed the deed. She was arrested last night and taken to Cleburne. The only theory advanced is that she was demented.

Prohibition in Northampton.

(Roanoke News.)

We learn that the Board of Commissioners of Northampton has officially refused to grant any license to retail liquor in the county. After the expiration of licenses now in force prohibition will prevail unless the board reconsiders its action. This law says the commissioners shall grant licenses upon compliance with the proper requirements, but the Supreme Court, we believe, has construed the law to give commissioners larger discretion than the bare language of the act would imply.

An Important Industrial Transaction.

By the United Press

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 16.—One of the most important industrial transactions ever effected in South Carolina was consummated to-night in the sale by the city council of the Columbia Canal to a syndicate of Boston capitalists. The canal has been under construction for years by the city and extends along the Congaree and Broad rivers to a point within the corporate limits to an upper terminus on Broad river three and one half miles distant. It will be completed by Nov. 1st, and will furnish thirteen thousand horse power of water power. The purchasers, represented by Mr. Geo. Wallace, of a prominent Boston banking firm are to pay $260,000 for the property and at once erect cotton factories within the city limits. To a State reporter to-night Mr. Wallace said that it was expected several New England mills would be removed to Columbia as a consequence of the sale. With the utilization of this superb water power assured, Columbia must in a few years become one of the chief cotton manufacturing centres of the South.

THE GOVERNMENT

LEADERSHIP

Of the English House of Commons.

SMITH HAS RETIRED.

And Lord Randolph Churchill is Urged for the Position.

LONDON, July 16.—The now certain retirement of Mr. W. H. Smith from the government leadership in the House of Commons and the consequent vacancy in the Cabinet have again brought the friends of Lord Randolph Churchill to the fore as advocates of his claims to office.

Since Lord Randolph's voluntary withdrawal from office in a fit of pique he has been brought forward as a candidate to fill each successive vacancy that has occurred in the Cabinet, invariably with the same result. Whether Lord Randolph would resume office under Lord Salisbury, even his closest friends are not prepared to say definitely, but it is unquestionably a fact that he is about the last person in England to whom a Cabinet position would be offered as the preference of a majority or even a respectable minority of the present ministry. Nevertheless his name is being industriously mentioned by his henchmen as one of the most desirable who could be selected to administer the affairs of a government department. It is only just to him to say, however, that many of his admirers believe that the presentment of his claims is wholly unauthorized by him and would meet with his prompt condemnation were he aware of it.

PROFESSOR SUGGESTED FOR THE UNIVERSITY.

Vacant Chair of Latin

(Special Cor. STATE CHRONICLE.)

The Chair of Latin at the University is vacant. The man to fill it will soon be elected. We could suggest no better man than Prof. Hugh Morson, of Raleigh.

He has probably prepared more boys for that institution in the last decade than any other man in the State. The records of these young men during their University course, show conclusively that they entered with the advantage of thorough and systematic preparation.

Young men prepared by him have taken the highest stand at the Naval and Military Academies. Therefore we have reasons to believe him and his distinguished associate, Capt. Denson, to be among the leading educators in the United States.

Prof. Morson, not only has a superior ability in instructing the youth; but in addition, has the admirable faculty of inspiring them to be true men.

A graduate of the University of Virginia, a teacher of varied and eminently successful experience, a thorough Latin scholar, a Christian gentleman; these qualifications make him a most eligible man for the important duties of a University Professor.

THE MAGIC LAKE

Its Water Comes from the River Colorado.

(By the United Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—The source of the Salton Lake is now settled. The water comes from the Colorado river, and a newspaper party has just come into Salton from Yuma, having made the whole distance in a boat. They report that the Colorado river had broken through the western banks at several points, the original breaks being about 20 miles from Yuma. This overflow filled a large basin bounded by the Southern Pacific track on the northeast, by the Colorado river on the southeast, by a ridge of hills some distance south on the northwest. This basin was filled rapidly when the second break occurred in the last named ridge of hills freeing an immense volume of water through two streams into Salton basin and forming the present lake. The salt salina of the water is explained by the large deposits of salt in the desert. The water is bringing down an immense lot of seed and excellent cattle food is springing up everywhere. The desert will soon have good pasturage.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—Walter Chedal, seventeen years old, was struck by a train and killed to-day at Washington Grove, near this city. His mother was within a short distance of the train when the accident occurred. The boy's father claims that the train was not running on schedule time, and that no warning whistle was given.
